Detailed Review Of U.S. Foreign Policy Expected

Diplomats Predict Survey To Lead To High Level Parleys

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is expected to begin almost immediately a sweeping review of U.S. foreign and defense policies to determine how he can work toward worldwide peace and cooperation as set forth in his inaugural address.

Diplomats predict the survey of international relations and the development of new or revised programs will lead to early, high-level consultation with Allied governments as a prelude to negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Kennedy told the world after being sworn in Friday that both sides in the cold war should "begin anew the quest for peace," including a fresh start on disarmament and other critical problems. His words stood as a challenge to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who has called for an early return to summit conference diplomacy.

The new President did not mention a summit conference nor any other form of negotiation in specific terms. The burden of his statement seemed to be that it is not the form but the purpose of negotiations which is important. He had said during the political campaign last fall that a meeting at the summit must give advance promise of agreement.

In his first official declaration as president, Kennedy said that the United States would never "negotiate out of fear." This appeared to be a caution to Khrushchev against trying to force a summit meeting by stirring up a new crisis at Berlin or elsewhere.

What the great powers should do, Kennedy said, is "explore those problems which unite us instead of belaboring those problems which divide us."

The difficult task now before the new administration is to devise programs by which these general statements of purpose can be translated into specific proposals for action.

The same thing holds true for Kennedy's pledge to work in close unity with Allied countries, to support the freedom of the new nations of Asia and Africa, to strengthen the United Nations and to create a "new alliance of progress" with "our sister republics" of the Western hemisphere.

With Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other Cabinet members taking office today, and with the detailed job of organizing the new government still ahead, no one here now knows how long the task of developing new plans will take.

The only negotiation pending in the disarmament field is the Geneva conference on a nuclear weapons test ban. In suspension since late last year, this conference is scheduled to resume Feb. 7. State Department officials expect the Kennedy administration will have to seek a delay.

The U.N. General Assembly, which recessed late last year, is due to return to work March 7. A delay in that meeting has not been suggested, so the new administration has a month and a half to get ready for the whole range of problems normally before the Assembly.

In at least one crisis Kennedy and Rusk have no choice but to move ahead rapidly. The conflict in Laos, which plagued the closing months of the Eisenhower administration, continues unabated. The United States is supporting the pro-Western government of Premier Boun Oum. The Soviets claim the legal premier is Souvanna Phouma, who fled the country last month after warring factions destroyed the ability of his neutralist regime to maintain order.

Communist armies have been delivered to rebel forces from neighboring North Vietnam in Soviet planes. The State Department fears a Red triumph in Laos would endanger all Southeast Asia. Armed U.S. training planes have been made available to the pro-Western forces.

Inaugural Fun Is All Over Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — The inaugural fun is over for President Kennedy.

This is his first full day in office, and even though it's a Saturday—normally a light day at the White House, Kennedy planned a full work schedule.

He was out late again Friday night with another round of merry-making, but his schedule today called for a meeting with the White House staff at 9 a.m. and a luncheon date with the National Democratic Committee.

If the Senate gives quick approval to Kennedy's Cabinet selections, they will be sworn in at a White House ceremony late today.

And tonight Kennedy is to be honored at a dinner of the Alfalfa Club, a fun-loving social organization.

You'd think, after the pace Kennedy has been keeping these past few days, that he'd be ready for a quiet evening in his new home. But that doesn't take into account the amazing Kennedy energy.

His inaugural day offered a perfect example. After his inaugural address, he watched the big parade in his honor that went on and on until 6:14 p.m., a full hour after darkness had fallen.

Since it was bitter cold, and the wind made it seem even colder, most of the spectators, including those who paid $25 apiece for their seats, fled to warmer havens.

Kennedy not only stayed through every minute of it, he seemed really to enjoy it.

He got a bang out of a Buffalo Bill type character who rode a buffalo in the parade.

He admired the PT-boat similar to the one he once commanded. He clapped and grinned and doffed his high silk hat and, when it was over, said "It was wonderful."

Then Friday night Kennedy really had himself a ball. The crowds were so huge that the ball was scattered over five sites.

Kennedy went to them all. Mrs. Kennedy gave up at a fairly decent hour and went home.

Kennedy scurried right ahead, as if racing around town from one ballroom to another was the finest sport in the world. Indeed, he said so.

"I think this is a wonderful way to spend an evening," Kennedy said at one o'clock in the morning. "I hope we can all meet here tomorrow night at the same place at 1 a.m. and do it all over again."

Then he hustled away to another ballroom. Possibly the highlight of the evening was his visit to the huge National Guard Armory.

President and Mrs. Kennedy and Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson sat in a box overlooking a floor so big 100-yard dashes can be run on a straightaway with plenty of room to spare.

Some of the spectators, who paid from $25 to $40 each for tickets, were so far away they could scarcely tell which was Kennedy and which was Johnson.

And there was little dancing, just standing, although many enjoyed the evening by sipping champagne out of—of all things—paper cups.

Nearly everyone else in Washington, worn out by a big day, beat his way home through the snow and went to bed.

But around 2 a.m. Kennedy dropped by the home of columnist Joseph Alsop—and joined another party.

Turnpike Bond Swindle Eyed

Banks Make Checkup On Possible Losses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—How extensive is the Ohio turnpike bond swindle?

Banks and investment houses here and in the New York area are looking into their portfolios in the wake of Friday's revelation that the bonds with a face value totaling at least $365,000 were either counterfeit or suspected.

One block of $50,000 worth came to light here and another of the same total turned up in Cleveland. George H. Cutter, partner in Cutter, Bennett & Co., New York, said an employee of the firm that printed the genuine bonds confirmed that a block totaling $265,000 in denominations of $1,000 each uncovered there was spurious.

This represented only a small fraction of the $326 million worth issued to finance the 241-mile northern Ohio toll road, but it still promised to be a costly fraction to the institutions holding them.

President Leland A. Stiner of the Ohio National Bank here said there was no reason for any legitimate bondholder to be disturbed.

The counterfeiting was disclosed in a joint statement by Stiner and Chairman James W. Shocknessy of the Turnpike Commission saying:

"We have learned that some forged bonds, purportedly issued by the Ohio Turnpike Commission, have appeared on the New York financial market."

The statement added that the FBI and other government agencies concerned with those committing crimes involving national banks had been informed, and that it was expected the forgers would be apprehended.

The statement also attributed the counterfeiting to a "network of criminals operating throughout the United States, forging securities and counterfeiting currency."

Federal investigating agencies made no comment. The original discovery of the forgeries was credited to Salomon Bros. & Hutzler, New York investment bankers, after it had transferred one lot of $125,000 of the bonds to the Chemical Bank, New York Trust Co. earlier this week.

Inauguration Speech Hailed By Non-Reds

LONDON (AP) — The non-Communist world today hailed President Kennedy's inaugural speech as a stirring message of hope and challenge. It gave special cheers to his bid for renewed East-West negotiations.

Hopes that Kennedy can ease cold war tensions were also expressed by three top Communist leaders — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, East Germany's Walter Ulbricht and Yugoslavia's President Tito. In other Red sectors Kennedy was denounced or ignored.

Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro greeted Kennedy's speech with an offer to make peace—but on his own terms. He said the United States must change its "mistaken and absurd" policy toward his regime before any reconciliation is possible.

The British press seized on Kennedy's phrase, "Let us never negotiate out of fear, but let us never fear to negotiate."

"This is a splendid motto for all of us," the laborite Daily Herald said. "And now we await the response of the Communist world."

Reaction to the speech in other non-Communist capitals was favorable. In the United Nations, the consensus among diplomats, Asian, African, Communist and Western alike, was "very good."

Hog Prices Show Dip

Eisenhowers Settle Down In Their First Private Home

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Dwight and Mamie Eisenhower, out of the White House less than a day, settled down today in the first private home they have ever known.

Throughout their married life, the Eisenhowers have always lived at temporary addresses. Some of them have been excellent ones, such as 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C., Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe, and the President's Residence, Columbia University.

But wherever they have lived in the past, the Eisenhowers always knew a moving day would come.

Now, regardless of how far they may travel, an attractive white brick and fieldstone house with 14 bedrooms and 8 baths will always be home.

The Eisenhowers bought their farm on the edge of the Gettysburg Battlefield in 1950 and immediately began renovating the ancient house. The renovation was completed in 1955 at a cost of some $150,000. They spent their first night there in March, 1955. James C. Hagerty, who served as Eisenhower's press secretary during his eight years in the White House, told newsmen then: "This is the first private house the President and Mrs. Eisenhower have ever known, and there will be no inspection of the house now or ever."

Most of the information the public has gotten about the Eisenhower home has come from persons who have been guests there.

A glassed-in sun porch overlooks the Civil War battlefield. Some of the world's leading figures have chatted with Eisenhower there.

Another item is a white marble mantle in the living room. It was installed in the White House in 1854 and removed during the administration of Chester Arthur. Located in a second-hand store several years ago, the White

Kennedy Mind Said Open on Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Grange has advised its members that President Kennedy does not feel bound by specific farm aid proposals outlined in his party's national platform last year.

It said the new president feels committed only to the "over-all objective of raising farm income."

The Grange, in a news letter to its membership, said this attitude of Kennedy was learned by National Grange Master Herschel D. Newsom at a farm conference the President held in New York earlier this month. Newsom and a number of other farm organization officials attended.

"Farm leaders have been given to understand that there will be no hasty or precipitous action that would upset present farm programs," the communication stated.

"Instead, both Kennedy and Freeman (Orville L. Freeman, secretary of agriculture) expect to take time to hear and consider proposals by all of the farm, and some of the consumer groups."

The letter said Newsom gained an impression from the New York conference that Kennedy "intends to take a direct hand in the development of farm programs and policies . . . that he intends to share that responsibility with his secretary of agriculture rather than delegate all of it."

Senate Asked To Approve Cabinet Names

Domestic Program Expected Shortly With Depressed Area Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is off to a flying start with a Democratic-controlled Congress on which he is depending to pass his legislative program.

Although there is some minor commotion over the timing, the Senate appears likely to give swift approval to the new chief executive's Cabinet and other top appointments. That approval may come today.

His domestic program will start rolling with scheduled Senate consideration within a few days of a bill to provide federal aid for depressed areas plagued by chronic unemployment.

Kennedy dazzled Republicans and Democrats alike with a 14-minute inaugural address Friday in which he told the world crisply that America will "pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend or oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of liberty."

Kennedy did not deal in any specifics or recommend congressional action. That will come later presumably in a series of individual messages.

His inaugural talk drew approving comment from both Republicans and Democrats.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Kennedy's summation of America's position in the world was "a very compact message of hope."

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, House minority leader, was "much impressed."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called Kennedy's talk "magnificent." Assistant Leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota said the new President had laid out a blueprint for "an administration of vitality."

Robert F. Kennedy, his brother's choice for attorney general, thought the message "touched everybody." Adlai Stevenson, nominee for ambassador to the United Nations, said the new President had "reaffirmed our dedication to our own freedom and to freedom around the world."

Kennedy sent the formal nominations for his 10 cabinet members and that of Stevenson to the Senate shortly after he took the presidential oath. Republicans were amused that a White House clerk forgetfully had stamped their copies with the signature of the retiring president, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

As he had done before, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., objected to action on the appointments until reports could be made available by committees which held advance hearings on the nominations.

Mansfield called the Senate into a morning session with the assurance the reports were ready. All 10 Cabinet appointees and Stevenson, who will have cabinet rank, have won the informal approval of the committees.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who took the oath minutes before Kennedy, was ready to preside over the session.

Customer 'King' In Grocery Stores

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

While many consumers may not realize it, they are still "king" of our retail food stores. This is particularly true of the perishable departments of our food markets, says Bruce Marion, Ohio State University extension specialist in food merchandising.

In reviewing changes that have occurred in retail meat departments, and doing some "crystal-balling" about the future, Marion notes an increased emphasis on winning the confidence and satisfaction of meat customers.

This probably has been the result of intensified competition for Mrs. Consumer's food dollar and the recognition of the meat department as the strongest "drawing card" in today's food store, Marion points out.

Leading retailers are trying a variety of approaches in their attempt to win customers, the specialist says. One of these approaches is increasing the variety and convenience of meat cuts. A definite increase is evident in the number of boneless cuts offered, as are efforts to merchandise different unusual cuts. One chain, for example, merchandised more than 30 different cuts from pork loins during one period of 1960.

Another approach is initiating more customer service practices.

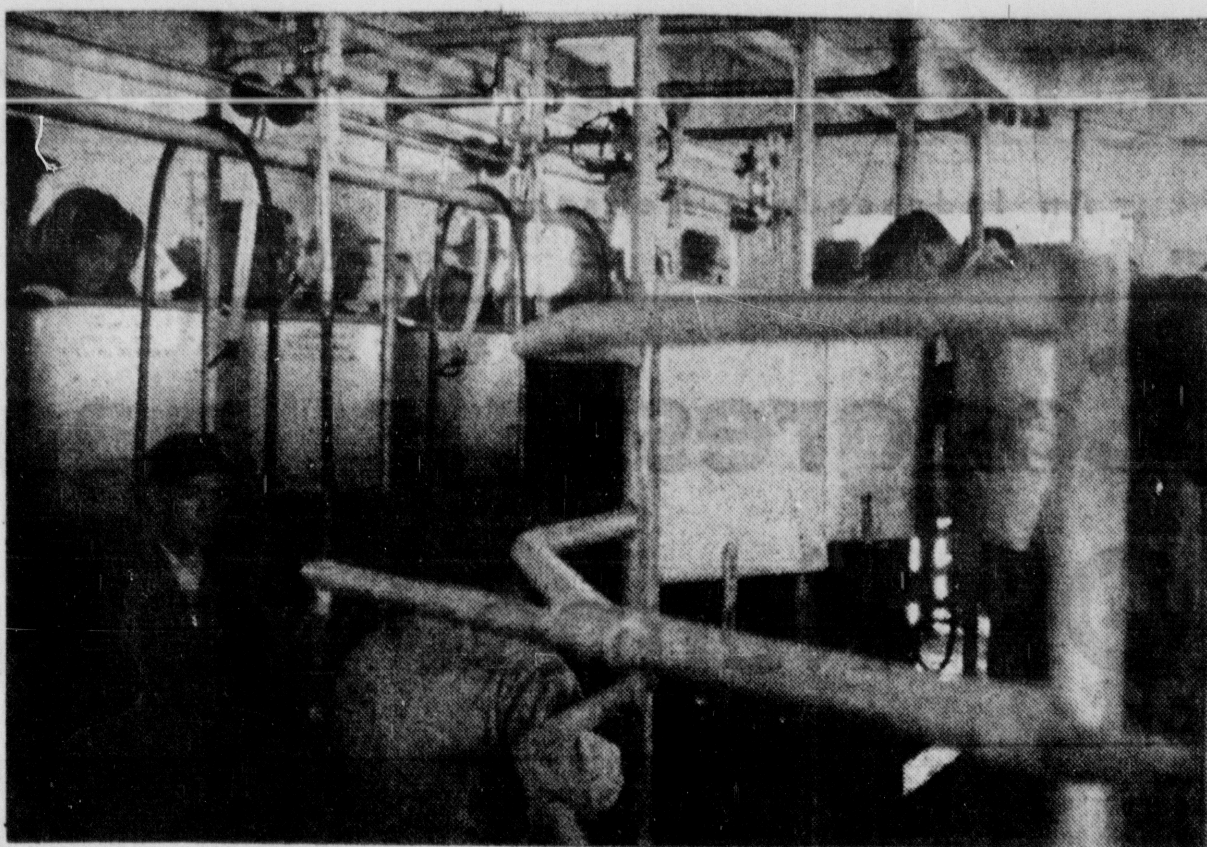

Service meat cases are still in the operations, but they appear to be coming back gradually in efforts to gain more personal contact with customers and to please those who prefer buying meat over a service counter. Several firms have added a second grade of beef to meet the demands of both price and quality meat shoppers.

CUSTOMER education and assistance in cooking methods and menu preparation are yet another effort to please and win Mrs. Consumer through better services, Marion says.

Frozen meats are being sold with great success in a limited number of markets. While there are many advantages to the retailer and consumer in frozen meats, particularly with slow-moving cuts, customer confidence and acceptance must be gained for significant inroads to be made, the specialist explains.

Efforts also are being made to find ways to increase the tenderness of meats, extend the keeping quality, reduce the amount of fat and bone, and increase the efficiency of retailing meats.

Consumers can help their retail meat department by expressing their likes and dislikes. If they are dissatisfied with a meat purchase, their meat man wants to know about it. In this way, he can make faster progress toward pleasing all his customers.

Deadline Near for Reporting Farm Workers

Farm operators are reminded that the January 31 deadline for reporting their "covered" agricultural workers is near at hand.

According to E. H. Biedenholz, manager of the Chillicothe district office of the Social Security Administration, they have until this date to file tax returns for their employees, who in 1960 met the agricultural work test.

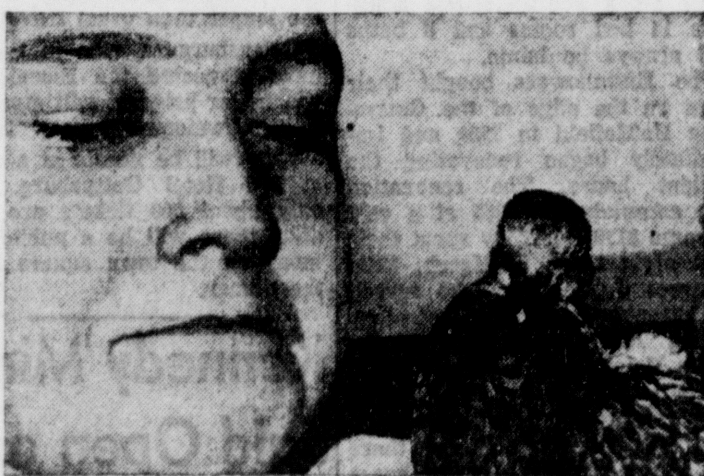

To be "covered" a worker must be in at least one of the following categories:

1. Cash wages paid to him by the farm operator must have amounted to $150 or more during 1960. The wages do not include such items as room and board, clothing and other payments in kind.
2. He must have worked on at least 20 different days during the year, for cash wages figured on a time basis.

If a farm worker was a member of a crew, the crew leader is usually responsible for reporting him at this time. However, in many cases the farm operator is the person responsible, if such is the agreement between him and the crew leader.

Biedenholz further stated that for 1960, the social security tax is 6 per cent with 3 per cent deducted from the employee's wages and 3 per cent to be paid by the employer. This tax is figured on earnings up to $4,800 a year.

Unemployment is expected to be serious in the mid-60's, particularly for poorly trained young workers, according to reports from the United States Department of Labor.

If this forecast materializes, parents are challenged to provide the best possible education for young people.

An increasing part of family income has been and will continue to go into taxes to pay for education—both public schools and state supported higher education. If the best education means a college education, the family needs to provide additional funds for the student's education.

A comparison of tuition and fee costs with those 10 years ago in 196 colleges and universities show an increase of more than 86 per cent for all the institutions. Tuition and fees are a relatively small portion of the median expenditure. The major expenditures which make it difficult for low income families to send a son or daughter away to school are board and room costs.

Factors that affect the total cost of attending college include: spending habits formed at home, the choice of college attended, pressures of campus habits and customs, size of family income, and whether or not student lives at home and commutes.

Families planning to send a boy or girl to college may find a study of those points helpful in determining how big a job the financing will be.

If you read this column in December and thought the recipe for Orange Pecan Bread seemed a little strange, you were right. Because it is a good recipe, you may still like to try it. Here it is:

- 2 1/2 cups sifted all purpose flour
 - 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon soda
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoons margarine
 - 1 cup strained honey
 - 1 egg
 - grated peel of one orange
 - 3/4 cup orange juice
 - 1 cup chopped pecans
- Sift together the flour, baking powder, soda, and salt. Cream margarine until smooth. Stir in honey, unbeaten egg and orange juice, alternately to the butter honey mixture mixing well after each addition. Stir in pecans and pour into a 9 1/2 by 5 1/4 by 2 1/4 inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 45 to 50 minutes.

Cattle Feeder Panel Planned

Annual Winter Meet Set for January 26

Two animal scientists, two cattle feeders, and two feed company representatives will appear on a panel January 26 to discuss how to feed cattle for maximum profit.

The occasion will be the annual winter meeting of the Ohio Cattle Feeders Assn. in the Southern Hotel, Columbus. Plans for the meeting were announced today by James H. Warner, Ohio State University extension beef cattle specialist and association secretary.

The animal scientists who will appear on the panel are Dr. William Tynzik, Department of Animal Science, The Ohio State University; and Dr. Earle Klosterman, The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

The cattle feeders are Ray Mahan, of St. Paris, and William K. Brown, of Tecumseh, Mich. The feed company representatives are Dr. J. L. Williamson, of the Ralston Purina Co., St. Louis; and Dr. Leo V. Curtin, of McMillan Feed Mills, Decatur, Ind.

Dr. George R. Johnson, chairman of the department of animal science at Ohio State and the experiment station, will serve as moderator for the panel which will appear on the afternoon program. In another afternoon feature, Dr. Warren Amling, veterinarian of London, will discuss shipping fever.

ASSOCIATION President Dwight Wise will open the meeting at 10:30 a. m. with an address on "The Business Side of Cattle Feeding". Other morning speakers will be Ellard Pfaltzer, of Pfaltzer, Inc., Chicago; and Herman K. Ankeney, Xenia, Green County representative to the Ohio House of Representatives and chairman of the House Agricultural committee. Pfaltzer will discuss "Steaks and Roasts for Millions" and Ankeney, "New Proposed Farm Legislation". Banquet speakers in the evening

Associate County Extension Agent

By EDWIN D. TAYLOR
What last year was the Western Cloverleaf Riding Club will this year be divided into two clubs. One club is to be for 4-H'ers with ponies and the other for 4-H'ers with horses for projects. Names of the new club have not been decided upon yet.

Emerson Brown, one of the advisors of last year's club, will be the head advisor for the new pony club. The first meeting of the new pony club is scheduled 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum.

This 4-H club is designed for boys and girls who are interested in learning more about ponies. Brown extends an invitation to all youth between 10 and 20 years of age who have access to a pony to come to the organization meeting.

will be Charles Bell, Jr., Federal Extension Service, Washington, D. C.; and Roger Cloud, DeGraff speaker of the Ohio House of Representatives. Bell will show slides of his recent trip to Africa and Cloud will talk on the subject, "Your Legislature at Work".

Dorwin Hay, a parent very much interested in 4-H club work and a helper with the riding club last year, will assume the advisordship of the new horse club. The first meeting of the horse club will be 8 p. m. January 29, at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Coliseum. This club is designed for boys and girls who are interested in learning more about horses. Hay extends an invitation to all youth between 10 and 20 years of age who have access to a horse to come to this meeting.

The Alluring Assassins

Rich Diet Plus Soft Living
Blamed for Heart Failures

Editor's Note—Two of every five deaths in America are caused by heart attacks and strokes. Behind them, medical men suspect, operates a syndicate of alluring assassins—in the guise of rich food and easy living. In the following article, the first of three, an Associated Press science writer brings you up to date on the latest clues on the trail of the killers.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

A syndicate of assassins stalks this land stilling 1,300 human hearts each day, almost one a minute.

This deadly syndicate causes heart attacks, the greatest single killer of Americans. I also causes 500 fatal strokes a day, thus accounting for 40 per cent of all American deaths.

The syndicate has a name — atherosclerosis, a process in which vital arteries become narrowed or clogged.

Few if any doctors think there is only one cause of atherosclerosis. Rather, they suspect a syndicate of causes.

And expert suspicions are pointing, among other things, to two of the most alluring aspects of American life — our rich diet and our soft living.

They suspect many men and women, are eating and lazing their way into the hands of the assassins.

They think — but cannot yet prove — that some changes in diet and exercise habits might greatly reduce the risk of heart attack. Part of their advice: "Stop gorging and start moving."

Very significantly, many heart specialists and general physicians are taking their own advice. It's less and less a case of a chubby physician, for example, telling his patients THEY should reduce.

The alluring diet assassin involves as prime suspects too many calories, too much of certain fats in our food, obesity, and cholesterol in the bloodstream.

Indeed, says one researcher,

Soviet doctors are becoming worried that heart attacks will soar in the Soviet Union when and if Premier Khrushchev makes good his boast of matching America in rich and plentiful food for all.

It's far easier to ride than to walk; to watch than to do.

This soft living cloaks another assassin, many authorities think. They point to acres of excess American weight, flabby muscles, potbellies, spreading rears, creeping obesity after age 25.

They worry over habits of too little exercise, of activity limited at day's end of twiddling TV dials, or pressing power brakes on cars.

Calories can be spent or saved like money, they stress. Save too much, and you grow fat. Spend some extra calories each day in movement, and the piggy bank of excess weight can grow slimmer.

Not all heart authorities, be it clear, agree that diet and inactivity are important assassins. Nor can they promise that changes would disarm them.

But many agree moderate changes might do much good, and cannot do harm, particularly for middle-aged men now dying of heart attacks at an appalling rate.

They'd like to see young men start these changes early, before atherosclerosis — which is a long-term process — snuffs out their lives in their 40s or 50s. Autopsies find that atherosclerosis already has started in the arteries of 60 per cent or more of young men killed in accidents or war.

All authorities point to other suspected agents in the syndicate: HEREDITY: Risk of coronary attacks appears higher if a close relative died prematurely of a heart attack — before age 50 or 60. Heredity cannot be changed. But it can put a man on notice to take special precautions.

TENSIONS: Medical opinion is divided on the role of tensions and pressures. Humans in every age have lived under tensions, some point out. Others think stress is involved, in part perhaps by making blood tend to clot faster.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE: Chances of a coronary are higher if blood pressure is high. Modern drugs often can reduce it.

SMOKING: Most statistical studies link excessive cigarette smoking with increased risk of coronaries.

Syndicate members can gang up. Dr. Jeremiah Stamler of Chicago's Board of Health put it this way:

A man has only one chance in 20 or even 50 of dying of a heart attack before age 65 if he has normal weight, average or low amounts of blood cholesterol, no damage to kidneys, no high blood pressure or diabetes, is not a heavy cigarette smoker and is moderately active.

But his chance of escaping a heart attack in middle age is only one out of two if he's been tagged by two or three members of the syndicate, such as high blood cholesterol, high blood pressure, or obesity.

This article concerns only diet and inactivity as suspects in atherosclerosis.

The heart is a powerful and near-tireless muscle, squeezing blood from its chambers to circulate through the body.

The heart muscle itself receives nourishing blood from two pencil-sized arteries, the coronary arteries.

Fatty plugs and blood clots forming in these arteries can block the flow, and this starves some of the heart muscle tissue. If the blockage is severe enough, a heart and a human being die.

Cholesterol, a waxy substance, and fatty materials in the blood are known to form part of the artery deposits. Hence he suspects concerning diet.

But the heart fights for life. It can develop extra, or collateral, little blood vessels to nourish the heart muscle.

Exercise helps a heart develop this ability, and may even reduce the risk that plugs or deposits will form in the first place.

Atherosclerosis, with its toll of the heart and brain, now is called the nation's gravest chronic epidemic.

Why U.S. Is in Laos

In moonlight, in the early morning of May 7, 1954, a "human sea" of communist troops, equipped with Soviet and Chinese weapons, swept across the cratered, blood-soaked soil of Dien Bien Phu in Indo-China. The heroic French garrison, having withstood a siege of 55 days, surrendered.

It is a memory now — one of a long succession of memories that stretch back through the Congo, Formosa, Hungary and Korea. After more than seven years of fighting in Indo-China, Dien Bien Phu broke the spirit of French resistance.

Even as it happened, delegates from North Vietnam (communist), South Vietnam (French Union), the U. S. A., Britain, the Soviet Union, France, Red China, Laos and Cambodia were debating peace terms at Geneva.

Old French Indo-China, a loose confederation of states, was partly reshaped. North Vietnam became communist; South Vietnam, strongly influenced by France, was given autonomy. Laos and Cambodia, two kingdoms which had formed part of Indo-China, became completely independent and were demilitarized, except for forces needed for self-defense.

The Geneva agreements were to be supervised by commissions composed of representatives from Canada, India and Poland. For four years the three countries supervised the truce terms and when these had been met, withdrew.

When French influence was withdrawn from Laos, the vacuum was filled by the United States. Had the U. S. failed to move in, the nearest big power — China — would have done so. Had this happened, South Vietnam, Cambodia and Siam — all next door neighbors of Laos — would without doubt have been suckered into the Chinese communist orbit.

More than $300 million in American aid has been poured into Laos since 1954. In the last 18 months there have been six different governments. Today the government is under communist attack. The Reds have waited for years for the hour to strike, but they may have miscalculated.

Glasses will do strange things to your vision. Especially after you have two or three refills.

U.S. Feeds the World

Could there be at least a partial solution to the farm problem in sight? The United States in 1960 supplied 17 per cent of the world trade in farm products and sold the production from one-sixth of the acreage harvested. Both these achievements are records which helped substantially in containing crop surpluses.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson is credited with a Herculean sales accomplishment in the long list of nations now buying American farm products in quantities that have grown in each of the last several years. In behalf of this effort, the secretary visited 42 countries during his eight-year tenure. On eight trade promotion trips covering 106,000 miles, he visited all parts of Europe, Northern Africa, the Near East, the Far East, Central and South America.

Exporting farm products is not only a step to reduced surpluses, it has become an important addition to total exports as a source of income for the U. S. In the six years since the agricultural surplus disposal program was enacted by Congress, $21 billion in farm products has been sold to world markets. Of this, $14 billion was purchased in U. S. dollars, and the remainder in currency of the buyers.

An important part of the 1954 surplus disposal legislation was the provision for acceptance of currency other than the dollar in payment for farm products. While these currencies extract a discount from the U. S., they have opened many new markets in dollar-poor areas of the world and have made it possible for the government to reduce its promotion of unsatisfactory giveaway programs.

With many nations unable to provide more than a small fraction of the needed sustenance within their own borders, the foundation now firmly in place faces an unlimited potential.

New Life for Civil Defense

Possible direction and purpose for America's befuddled Civil Defense organization is offered in a new book by a physicist.

Backing his claim with a mountain of statistics, Herman Kahn, senior physicist of the Rand Corp., says fallout shelters and training programs could spell the difference between survival and annihilation in a nuclear war. His case for a more effective civil defense program is presented in the book "Thermonuclear War."

Knowledge that America could weather a surprise attack and deliver a devastating counterpunch would be a major deterrent to war, the scientist is convinced. His program calls for shelter building programs, identification of existing shelters, distribution of radiation meters, training and research activities.

Lack of conviction that may precaution could prevent extinction in a nuclear attack is a principal reason why the civil defense program never has gotten off the ground. In addition, vacillating policy, boondoggling and gross inefficiency cost the organization most of the public confidence which was built up after its inception.

FUGITIVES FROM THE FBI

KENNETH EUGENE CINDLE

(In co-operation with J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, this paper is running descriptive articles on the criminals wanted by the FBI.)

KENNETH EUGENE CINDLE is being sought by the FBI for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for the crime of armed robbery. Tall, tattooed and a veteran criminal with a flair for western style of living, he is charged with the armed robbery of a Wichita, Kan., restaurant.

Two men, one allegedly Cindle, on Oct. 12, 1959, held up at gunpoint the occupants of a Wichita restaurant and made good their escape. One gunman was captured at Amarillo, Tex., but Cindle is still at large.

The wanted man was charged with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for armed robbery in a federal warrant issued at Wichita on May 10, 1960.

Also known as Kenneth Cindle, Kenneth Eugene Cindle, "Screwdriver," "Slim" and "Tex," the fugitive has been employed as cab driver, cook, farmer, laborer, oil field worker, ranch hand, salesman and truck driver.

Cindle has been arrested many times and has been convicted of forgery, drunken driving, armed robbery and escape. He has been armed with a .38 caliber pistol and should be considered dangerous.

DESCRIPTION: Age, 48; Born, Oklahoma (not supported by birth records); Height, 6 feet 2 inches; Weight, 165; Build, slender; Hair, brown; Eyes, gray; Complexion, medium. Middle and ring fingers of right hand amputated, appendectomy scar and tattoo "OPAL" on outer side of left forearm.

INFORMATION concerning fugitive should be telephoned to the nearest FBI office.

Truman Ready To Assist New President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today he has told incoming President John F. Kennedy he will do whatever Kennedy wants him to do.

Truman, who put aside his customary walking news conference because "it's too damn cold," conferred with Kennedy privately for about 35 minutes at Kennedy's Georgetown home Thursday.

Truman said he did not offer Kennedy any advice during their conversation.

"Advice is the cheapest thing in the world," Truman said, "and nobody listens to you anyhow."

Truman described Kennedy as brilliant and a "nice, decent young man."

"He knows the history of government as well as anyone I've met and that includes me," Truman said.

"I am an old retired farmer, now 77 years old. I am old enough to know better but I am willing to serve in any capacity Kennedy wants me to."

"I want his administration to be an outstanding success," he added.

As for the four years ahead, Truman said Kennedy is "young enough to stand the gaff. Kennedy's election has not gone to his head. That's remarkable. I know. I've been through it."

OFFICIAL WHITE HOUSE PORTRAITS—These are the official portraits of former President Eisenhower and Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, now hanging in the White House. They were painted by Thomas E. Stephens, a New York City artist. The portrait of the president is in the Green Room, and the one of his wife is in the diplomatic reception room.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Yesterday the presidency changed hands and Dwight D. Eisenhower's eight years as chief executive moved into the history books, his job done and waiting to be judged. What will the judgment be?

No matter what, it will be long coming because of the nature of the times. What looked like minor actions may prove to have been great victories, what seemed like major successes may prove to have been the roots of disaster.

In the past week Eisenhower tried in several ways to give his own appraisal of his eight years in office. Yet all he said could be summed up in the words of his predecessor, President Truman, before he left office in 1953.

Truman then, looking back over his own record, recalled an inscription on an Arizona tombstone and said it was the greatest epitaph a man could have or hope for: "He done his damndest."

The two retiring presidents used similar language in summing up what they considered their main achievement: preventing another world war and stopping communism from overrunning the earth.

Truman, just a few weeks before he turned the White House over to Eisenhower, pointed to a world globe which Eisenhower had sent him as a present in 1945 and said: "During these eight years, we've kept this old world out of disaster."

This week Eisenhower at his last presidential news conference pointed to his firmness in blocking Communist threats and gambits and picked out as a major accomplishment this: "We have actually stopped many of these risks (created by communism) from becoming realities."

Eisenhower called his big disappointment the failure to get to a place "where he could say it now looks as if permanent peace with justice is really in sight."

This, of course, was a major disappointment for Truman, too. He not only couldn't get close to peace but, at the moment of his retirement, was fighting the Korean War to keep the Red Tide back.

The two men's White House careers paralleled each other in several ways.

Truman had the daring and firmness to smash the Communist blockade of Berlin, to intervene to prevent the Russians from gobbling up Greece and Turkey, to go to war in Korea—all to stop communism in its tracks.

The most visibly bold action Eisenhower took was to send troops into Lebanon to stop the Reds from swarming over the Middle East. His firmness no doubt discouraged another Red blockade of Berlin, despite Russian threats.

It was Truman who set up the foreign aid program which Eisenhower continued. It was Truman who created foreign military alliances which Eisenhower not only adopted but expanded.

Yet, while Truman stopped communism, he could not control events at home. By the time he left office the country was split down the middle by McCarthyism, fear of Communists in government, dissension over the Korean War.

Eisenhower, a calmer and less cocky and belligerent man, managed to bring peace not only in Korea but at home, too, until by the time he ran for his second term in 1956, McCarthyism was dead and dissension pretty much healed.

Perhaps Eisenhower's greatest contribution to the presidency — although he didn't mention it — was as a kind of national pacifier and a bridge between two vital eras of American history.

By his own cheerfulness he was a force in keeping the country calm, or pretty much so, for eight years.

The Communist block has been building and hoarding its strength in recent years. It may be confident enough now to try new and far greater adventures than were possible eight years ago.

The great unknown factor in Eisenhower's stewardship is this: Did he do enough to keep abreast of the Russians in missiles and space. He thinks so. Only history and the years ahead will be able to say yes or no.

'A Good Man's Reward' Is Topic at First EUB Church

"A Good Man's Reward" will be the sermon topic discussed by the Rev. O. F. Gibbs at the Sunday morning worship service at the First Evangelical United Brethren Church. The service begins at 9:30 a. m.

The Senior Choir, directed by Montford Kirkwood Jr., will sing, "Living for Jesus" (Gabriel).

Miss Lucille Kirkwood, organist, announces the following numbers: prelude, "When God Leads" (Clarke); offertory, "Penitence" (Martin); and postlude, "The Soul Triumphant" (Rasley).

Hymns to be sung by the congregation include, "Yield Not to Temptation", "He Lifted Me" and "Lord, I'm Coming Home". Edwin Richardson will assist the pastor in the worship service.

The rites of holy baptism will be observed. Circleville Chapter No. 20 Royal Arch Masons will be guests in the worship service.

Sunday School in the children's department will convene in the service center at 9:25 a. m. with Mrs. Robert Dumm and Mrs. Donald Johnson in charge.

Church school in the youth and adult departments will meet following the worship service. A special offering will be received for the Coal Fund.

Nursery care is provided during both the worship service and Sunday school.

The Youth Fellowship will meet in the service center at 6:30 p. m. Jill Jenkins, Ann Perdon, Don McKee, Larry Fausnaugh and Gerald Davis will be in charge of the program.

First Baptist

Sunday School will begin at 9:30 a. m. at First Baptist Church with Jacob Reider as leader. The title of the lesson is "Who Is Jesus" taken from John 4.

The Morning Worship Service will follow at 10:30 a. m. with Mrs. Richard Compton as pianist. A special song "My Savior First of All" will be presented by the Adult Choir. The sermon will be delivered by pastor W. A. Baria.

Mrs. William Curtis and Mrs. M. L. Hulbut will be in charge of the nursery for the morning service.

Training Union will commence at 6:30 p. m. with Richard Tucker as leader. The topic of the lesson will be "Learning The Word By Living It."

Evening Worship Service will follow at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. William Baria and Mrs. Raymond McFee will provide special music. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Baria.

Mrs. Wayne Koonce and Mrs. Wayne Greer will be in charge of the nursery for the evening service.

Calvary E.U.B.

Morning Worship will begin at 9 a. m. at the Calvary EUB Church. The sermon topic will be "The Great Physician". The Scripture lesson found in John 5:1-9 will be read by the pastor, the Rev. G. H. Niswender, who will be assisted in the service by the Sunday School Superintendent, Carl Agin.

Congregational hymns will include: "Come, Thou Almighty King", "O Safe to the Rock" and "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah".

The Senior Choir will sing: "Take Thou Our Minds".

Mrs. Earl Milliron, organist, has announced the following as her numbers:

Prelude "The Lost Chord", Sullivan; Offertory "Prelude in A", Chopin and Postlude "Marche Romaine", Gounod.

At 10 a. m. the youth and adults will assemble for their classes for the study of the Sunday School lesson.

The children under the direction of Mrs. W. C. Shasteen will meet at 9 a. m. in their Sunday School classes and at 10 a. m. for worship.

Nursery care is provided during the services.

The Youth Fellowship will meet for the Y-Hour in the annex at 6 p. m.

Trinity Lutheran

Duplicate worship services will be held in Trinity Lutheran Church this 3rd Sunday after Epiphany at 8:30 and 10:45 a. m. Pastor Carl G. Zehner will present the sermon "The Golden Key" based on Gen. 9:20, 21.

The Children's Choir will present special music at the early service. Music will be led at the late service by the Adult Choir. Both choirs are under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Oesterling.

Mrs. Karl Herrmann will preside at the organ at both services. Sunday School for all ages will be held at 9:30 a. m.

The Nursery will be open during the late service in the Parish House.

Dial A DEVOTION — Call GR 4-2123 for a one minute devotion.

Christian Union

Sunday School at the Church of Christ in Christian Union, 436 E. Ohio St., will begin at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Superintendent William Smith will conduct the opening assembly in the adult department. The children will meet in the junior and beginner department auditoriums at this same time.

Pastor R. G. Humble will deliver the message in the 10:30 a. m. worship service.

During the adult worship hour, junior worship will be conducted in the children's auditorium.

Committee No. 4 with chairman Marvin Valentine will be in charge of the 6:30 p. m. youth service. Mr. P. Lewis Bevard with his Hawaiian Steel guitar will be featured in this youth service.

Assistant pastor, David Van Hoose, will speak in the 7:30 p. m. evangelistic service. Special singing will be furnished by Betty and Elmer Winner.

Presbyterian

"Maturing Christians", is the theme for the worship at the Presbyterian Church at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

This is the annual Youth Sunday, the day especially devoted to worshiping with our young people, exchanging ideas with them about their understanding of Christian faith and life, and thinking with them their own terminological thoughts, impressions and expressions.

Both the senior and junior fellowship groups will have important responsibilities during and after the worship.

Marilyn Sprenger will preside during the worship. Ellen Young will read the Scripture from the Gospel according to St. Luke, chapter 2, verses 25 to 52.

John Grigg will direct the responsive reading; Jack Mader will preside at the organ. The special music will be "Canzonetta Poetica" by Schumann played by Lynn Reichelderfer at the piano and Jack Mader at the organ.

Other members of the senior youth will serve as ushers and acolytes, and after the worship will conduct a reception in the assembly room and serve refreshments as they visit with the members of the congregation and display posters describing youth activities in the church and community.

St. Philip's Episcopal

The third Sunday after Epiphany will be observed as Theological Education Sunday at St. Philip's Episcopal Church.

Traditionally, this Sunday is observed in the week closest to the Feast of the Convention of St. Paul, which is next Wednesday. The Rev. William G. Huber will officiate at both the 8 a. m. and 10 a. m. services.

An offering will be received for theological education, and it will be divided between Philadelphia Divinity School, Mr. Huber's seminary, and Bexley Hall, the Episcopal seminary located at Gambier.

Layreader at the 10 a. m. service will be Robert Hutzelman. He will read the First Lesson and also read responsively with the congregation the Psalm for the Day. Acolytes serving at the 8 a. m. service will be Mike O'Donnell and R. O. Sines. Servers at 10 a. m. will be Bill Weldon, Mike Melson and Louis Pomerville with Tom Wright in charge.

At the Offertory, Miss Lois Wittich will sing "How Beautiful Are the Feet of Them" from the Messiah by Handel.

Hymns to be sung will include: "God of the Prophets", "Lord, Pour thy Spirit from on High" and "Rise up, O Men of God". The organ prelude will be "Sheep May Safely Graze" by Bach.

Survey Shows How Women Select a Dress

Very few women have guilty feelings about buying a dress their husbands can't afford.

Results of a consumer survey sponsored by leading dress manufacturer Andrew Arkin, reveal that only 13 per cent of the buyers of costly dresses felt badly about it. Among the women surveyed, 72 per cent reported they felt "happy" 61 per cent felt "excited" and 61 per cent felt "justified."

The poll, aimed at determining the methods and motives by which women select styles, indicated that there have been radical changes in clothes - buying that manufacturers and retailers have not kept pace with.

Most surprising of the changing trends unearthed is that price is a distant last of the factors women consider in choosing their clothes. Style was rated the first and most important factor by 54 per cent. Quality rated second and fabric and color third. Bargain hunting on markdown racks was frowned on by 49 per cent.

Of the 3,000 women participating in the tests conducted by the Furst Survey Research Center, 63 per cent said they did not want to see the whites of the saleslady's eyes until they had browsed through the racks.

Only 13 per cent claimed their choice was not influenced by what men or other women would think.

Wardrobe - replenishing plans for 1961 of those polled showed an intention to cut down on cocktail and street dresses in favor of buying suits and coats.

Margaret McNamara Is Shy But a Gracious Hostess

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Although she is a woman with wide-ranging civic and cultural interests, Mrs. Margaret McNamara, wife of the new Secretary of Defense, prefers to leave the public limelight to her husband.

He has often made news, but through it all Mrs. McNamara has shunned publicity for herself and her family. When he was named president of Ford Motor Co. on Nov. 9, 1960, she politely but firmly refused to be interviewed or photographed.

When McNamara's appointment as Secretary of Defense was announced it was only after much clamoring by the press that she consented to meet reporters and photographers.

Yet this public image of her as a shy, extremely modest woman is not altogether accurate. Reporters who visited the large, rambling Tudor-style McNamara home in Ann Arbor, Mich., found her to be a warm, friendly and hospitable hostess.

Mrs. McNamara's job has been to run the family, and it is a close-knit household in which they live. She and her husband and their three children, Margaret, 19 (a student at Stanford University), Kathleen, 16, and Craig, 10, often take summer hiking and winter skiing trips together.

The McNamaras regularly attend ice hockey and football games at the University of Michigan.

McNamara is 44, his wife is approximately the same age. They met while both were students at the University of California, but their courtship did not begin in earnest, she says, until after both were graduated.

They were married in 1940 in Alameda, Calif., where she worked for two years after graduation as a school teacher. In college, she had majored in science and physical education.

Mrs. McNamara is about 5 feet 3. She has dark, wavy hair cut rather short, and tends toward comfortable informality in her dress.

Her civic and cultural activities included:

Regional chairman of the White House Conference on Children and Youth in 1959; member of the Michigan Youth Commission, 1958, Scout leader; board member of Ann Arbor's League of Women Voters and chairman of the city's polio drive.

For several years she has studied French at the University of Michigan and last fall was one of the organizers of the French Alliance of Ann Arbor, a national and international group devoted to the propagation and study of French culture.

Other interests include art—she collects contemporary paintings and is an amateur painter herself—music, literature and drama.

In Washington, she says, the McNamaras will try to maintain the same "family atmosphere" they have had in Ann Arbor, but she admits "it may be difficult."

Dear Abby...

Our Vanishing Morals!

DEAR ABBY: A mother in our neighborhood is giving her 15-year-old daughter a stork shower. The girl is not married and will not be by the time the baby arrives. The 17-year-old father-to-be spends all his time at the girl's house. He quit school last year, hasn't a job and isn't looking for one.

The juvenile authorities won't allow the couple to get married because the boy "seems unable to accept responsibility" and has a poor family background.

All the mother of the girl says is, "It could happen to anyone, and what's done is done, so give the kids a break."

Fifty people are invited to this shower. I think it is in very poor taste. Am I—

TOO STRAIGHT-LACED
DEAR "TOO": Not in my opinion. We need to lace up some of those old-fashioned morals a little tighter. To attend a stork shower for an unmarried girl—under those held circumstances—is to imply your approval of the whole unfortunate mess. What's done is done! I don't think it should be overdone!

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and my boy friend is 22. We've been seeing each other for almost a year. He tells me he "loves" me, but he never mentions marriage. I am not trying to rush him into anything, but I date only him, and pretty soon I won't have a chance to get anyone else. Putting it cold, how can I get a proposal of marriage out of him? Should I come right out and ask him where I stand? All my friends are getting married and I feel—

"LEFT OUT"
DEAR LEFT: You are only 20, have been seeing the young man for less than a year, and are straining for a proposal. Ease off, Honey, and let this one marinate. If a girl has to ask a fellow where she stands—she's probably standing on the outside, looking in.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I read your advice column, I drop another quarter in my piggy bank for a ticket back to the paradise of the Orient. The females there are so much more superior to the gold-digging, allimony-hunting, crybabies that make up our woman-kind.

The only thought in the head of an Oriental woman is to keep her husband comfortable, happy and to obey his wishes. All American women ever thing of is themselves. As far as this cat is concerned, when the man said "Go West," he was talking right to me, but he meant WAY out. Excuse my dust.

THE ALLIGATOR
DEAR ALLIGATOR: I am sending you another quarter for your piggy bank to hasten your departure. There are jets leaving every day.

Tigers Edged by Heights 58-56 in Last 10 Seconds

Circleville's hopes for a cage victory over Franklin Heights here last night died in the final 10 seconds of the game.

The visiting Falcons broke a 56-56 tie to win the game, 58-56. The contest was a mass of excitement from start to finish.

That old hard luck story of not being able to hold a lead in the late stages plagued the Tigers for the third game in a row. Circleville, battling from behind, zoomed out in front, 56-52, with only one minute left in the test. But the persistent jinx struck a deadly blow.

Franklin Heights stole the ball three times to knot the count with about 20 seconds remaining, then swiped the cage again for the killing blow with not more than 10 to go.

JERRY Martin, a replacement, delivered the winning two points for the Falcons. It was his only basket of the contest and the swishing jumper couldn't have been truer.

The discouraging loss dimmed another fine shooting performance by Circleville's Bruce Barnes. The CHS cager connected for 25 points and was instrumental on several other baskets with neat passes to teammates.

Sam Weller was another key Tiger with his 19 points, many of them coming on some tricky movement from underneath.

Stan Dawkins, who rocked the Tigers with his deadlocking bucket in the final seconds, spearheaded the Falcons with 19 points. Roger Carper, who also starred as a defensive stalwart, poured in 14 and Bill Hankinson was damaging with 13.

Franklin Heights wrapped up the final count at the foul line by hitting eight of 10 tries. Circleville had six of 13. Each team hit 25 buckets.

Circleville managed to shake some of its former personal foul trouble as not a Tiger ran into serious infraction trouble until late in the game.

A CLOSE game highlighted action throughout. The score was knotted eight times, six times in the second quarter and twice in the final.

Circleville rolled off to a good start by taking a 13-12 lead in the first quarter as Barnes tallied the Tigers' first six points and 10 of the opening period total. The locals held a 13-5 margin at one point in the frame, but the advantage narrowed when Heights hit seven straight points.

The intermission count read 26-26 as Weller found the range for six, Barnes four and Garold Dade three. Dawkins smacked eight for the Falcons in the period.

Franklin Heights opened up in the third quarter to take a 47-42 lead at the period's end. This only seemed to set the stage for the chilling final chapter.

Capitalizing on Coach Dick Snouffer's pressing defense, the Tigers made a mighty bid with 6:18 left in the test when Weller tipped in a beauty to give the locals a 48-47 lead. Carper pushed Heights out front again with a foul toss and a jump shot, but Jimmie Wellington tied it at 50-50 with a long one-hander.

As the clock narrowed down to 3:26 Weller pushed the locals into a 52-50 advantage on a layup to bring the fans into an uproar. Barnes and Luther Johnson quickly followed with a foul toss each and Barnes drove in for another basket to give CHS what appeared a safe lead with only a minute to go.

THEN it was Franklin Heights' turn to explode. The Falcons quickly turned four Tiger miscues into two successful foul shots and three buckets to puncture the CHS victory balloon.

Circleville turned in one of its best shooting efforts of the season, hitting 25 of 57 tries from the field for a 43.5 per cent average. The Falcons made good on 25 of 67 for 37.3 per cent.

Barnes connected on 12 of 25 from the field and Weller zipped in nine of 15.

The evening chock full of excitement actually started in the reserve game in which Coach Jack Weikert's reserve Kittens dropped a 36-35 heartbreaker.

The Kittens, trailing 28-20 at the three-quarter mark, made a strong bid in the last frame with 15 points, but the effort was cut short by the clock.

Freddie Moore again sparked the locals with his six baskets and five charity throws for 17 points. Bob Waple was next with five. Roberts, a slick freshman ballhandler, was the mainstay for Heights with 18.

The Tigers, now 2-9 for the season, go to Wilmington Friday to battle the league leading Hurricane, then return here Saturday to host the strong Cavaliers of Chillicothe.

Braves Hold League Lead

Scioto Cagers Fall In 66-47 Contest

Logan Elm, out to protect its first place standing in the Pickaway County cage league, stopped visiting Scioto with a 66-47 verdict last night.

The Braves notched their fifth loop win without a loss. Their overall record stands at 10-2.

Playing their first year of basketball, the Braves have posed themselves as leading contenders for the coveted Pickaway County cage crown. They have two more loop games remaining, one at Darby and one at Williamsport.

The winners were out front the entire game with Roger Clarke and Butch Willey landing in top scoring brackets. Willey got 11 points and Clarke tallied 10.

SCIOTO's Bob Whiteside copped honors for the visiting team with 15 scored mostly on jumps under the basket. Scioto's league record is 1-5 and stands 4-8 for the season. The Braves reserve team handed Scioto a 61-25 decision.

Hurricane Storms Hard Toward Title

Wilmington, rapidly closing the gap on the SCO cage title, advanced another step last night with a 75-45 victory over Greenfield.

The win was the ninth straight for the Hurricanes who are now conducting cage warfare in their new spacious gymnasium. Veteran Marv Gregory sparked the winners with 24 points, although Greenfield's Roger Grooms nailed 27.

Other league games saw Circleville suffer a 58-56 defeat by Franklin Heights, marking the third straight loss in which the Roundtowners held a lead until the final minutes.

Hillsboro, running second in the SCO at 5-2, handled Washington C. H., 67-54, and Miami Trace dumped Pleasant View, 57-54.

League games next week find Circleville at Wilmington, Pleasant View at Greenfield, Hillsboro at Miami Trace and WCH at Franklin Heights.

Walnut Rocks Monroe with 86-52 Decision

Walnut's Tigers, still contenders for the Pickaway County cage title, added another victory to their league record last night as they handily visiting Monroe an 86-52 defeat. The Walnut record now stands at 4-1.

Larry Leist led the Tigers in last night's battle with nine field goals and a 4 free throws for a total of 22 points. Bill Hoover came in second with 19. Mike Neff and Tom Harber tied for third place with 12 points each.

Monroe's Hunt collected 23 points, hitting a big percentage from the side. Bigam had 17. Walnut sunk 12 out of 16 charities and Monroe went for 10 out of 18.

Van Camp's I'm It Is Jug Candidate

I'm It, owned by George W. Van Camp of Circleville, is one of 77 of the nation's outstanding candidates for 3-year-old pacing laurels in the 1961 renewal of The Little Brown Jug. The Jug will be raced September 21 at Delaware.

The Van Camp product owns a time of 1:59 4-5 following a fine season last year. She is one of 13 fillies eligible.

The list of Jug hopefuls includes the fastest of last year's 2-year-old pacing crop, Winter book choice Adios Cleo, 2-year-old pacer of the 1960 campaign, is among those which were kept paid up. Cleo is a member of the talented Johnny Simpson Stable which produced last year's Jug and world's champion, Bullet Hanover. Cleo was winner of many of the leading 2-year-old pacing stakes and earned a record of 1:59 2-5 in capturing the celebrated Fox Stake at Indianaapolis.

Simpson, besides chaffering Bullet to the Jug title, had won previous Delaware classics with Torpid and Noble Adios. It will be remembered that Bullet registered world's record clockings of 1:58 3-5 and 1:59 3-5 in last year's Jug. Brooks Hanover, brother to Bullet, was kept eligible to this year's Jug.

STAR GEM, 1:58 4-5, from the Frank Ervin Stable and Cape Horn, 1:59 4-5, from the Allwood Stable are other sub-two minute Jug aspirants.

The list also includes such half-mile track stars as Adios DON, Henry T. Adios, Hogan Hanover, Patricia Rhythm and Adiosand, all of which were among the top ten money winners from last year's crop of freshman sidewheelers.

Final Jug payment will be a starting fee of $500 due two days in advance of the race according to Thompson.

Tall Sheridan Gets Win over Laurelville

Laurelville's Wildcat cagers suffered their seventh defeat in 17 starts to a tall and overpowering Sheridan five last night in an 81-67 tilt.

The Wildcats trailed by a 10-point margin at half-time, 42-32, and were unable to catch the Sheridan ball team in the final stages.

Laurelville had four men to score in double figures. Bob Johnson led the home team with 21 points, sinking 9 out of 14 attempts. Larry Unger placed second with 17 and Bob Febes and Max Young shared third with 10 each.

Sheridan's Anspach was high-point man for the victors, scoring 30 points, mostly on jump shots. Moorehead ran a close second with 26 and White totaled 16.

Laurelville's reserves were defeated by Sheridan in a 45-32 test.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The lowest scoring field in the 20-year history of the Bing Crosby Golf Tournament today challenged co-leaders Bill Collins and Ted Kroll in the third round of play.

Collins of Baltimore and Kroll of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. grabbed the midway lead Friday with scores of 135, 9-under-par for 36 holes. The 210-pound Collins fired a 68 over the Cypress Point course while Kroll carded a 6-under-par 66 over Monterey Peninsula Country Club's course.

Forty-two of the 150 competing pros broke par for the two rounds with five others at even-par 144. In the past, no more than 20 golfers have gone 36 holes below par.

Former PGA champion Bob Rosburg entered the third round just a stroke off the pace with a 69-67-136. Deadlocked at 137 were Jack Burke with 68-69, Dave Hill 67-70 and the first-round leader Bob Goaly, with 66-71.

Arnold Palmer, Golfer of the Year in 1960, hit his tee shot on the first hole out of bounds but came back for a 4-under-par 68 and a 138 total. Ken Venturi, the defending champion, also was there with 67-71 along with Mexico City's Roberto de Vicenzo 72-66 and Dick Stranahan 69-69.

In the pro-amateur division, the team of Dow Finsterwald and former Walker Cup amateur Fred Kammer of Grosse Point, Mich., led after two rounds with a best ball score of 60-64-124.

Four teams were deadlocked a stroke back—Mason Rudolph and Curtis Person; Jack Burke and George Coleman Jr.; Dick Stranahan and Bob Vaillancourt, and Wes Ellis with Frank Tatum Jr.

The team scores include the amateur's handicaps.

Jack Sanford led National League pitchers in shutouts last season. He tossed six for the San Francisco Giant.

Aces Downed In 76-69 Tilt At Liberty U.

Amanda-Clearcreek hooked up in a battle royal last night at Liberty Union, with the host team taking anarrow 76-69 decision.

Amanda - Clearcreek ran headlong into a torrid Liberty Union five which zipped a 52.2 per cent average from the field. The Aces stayed in contention all the way with a 41.9 average.

Amanda, battling behind Roger Gussett's 20 points, 15 by Lynn Young and 13 by Randy Davis, soared to a 34-30 lead at halftime, but couldn't stem the tide as LU went on a binge for 24 points in the third quarter. The Aces outscored their hosts from the field, 26-24.

Jim Reed displayed fine ability for the winners with 27 points from various ranges. Johnson helped him along with 18 and Schweitzer added 15.

THE loss dipped the Aces' league record to 3-2, good for a current tie with Pickerington for third place in the Fairfield County circuit. Bremen leads the pack at 5-0 and LU is 4-1.

Amanda - Clearcreek gained a share of the honors with a 56-31 verdict in the reserve contest.

Grambling Star Signs Browns Pact

CLEVELAND (AP) — Preston Powell, a 6-foot-2 Grambling University star who weighs 230 and has sufficient speed to be either a halfback or fullback, has signed a 1961 contract with the Cleveland Browns.

Powell was the Browns' seventh choice in last month's National Football League draft. Two other draftees had signed prior to Friday — Bob Crespin, Mississippi halfback, and the Browns' first pick, and halfback Billy Gault of Texas Christian, the 13th choice.

K-State, Utah Taste Defeat

Both Top Teams Upset In Conference Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
College basketball's road trap has snared Kansas State and Utah.

The 10th-ranked Wildcats, latest member of the elite to try bucking the home court advantage, carried a 10-game winning streak and an earlier victory over Kansas into the Jayhawks' lair Friday night for a showdown for top spot in the Big Eight Conference. Kansas won 75-66.

The Utes, led by Billy (The Hill) McGill, invaded Provo, Utah for a Skyline Conference game against Brigham Young. BYU won 91-86.

Cincinnati's Bearcats won their eighth in succession by rapping host Drake 86-64 in a Missouri Valley Conference game, and Memphis State rolled to its 30th straight home triumph with a 70-60 victory over Murray State.

In another Skyline game, Utah State edged Montana 58-57 on two foul shots by Cornell Green when eight seconds left. Idaho State whipped Western (Colo.) State 83-53. Stanford whipped Washington 61-58 in overtime in a Big Five Conference clash as Phil Kelly sank a 50-foot jump shot to put the Indians ahead with 1:35 remaining.

Elsewhere Oregon defeated Washington State 60-53, Oregon State beat Idaho 67-52, Xavier of Ohio edged Western Kentucky 80-77, Syracuse whipped Alfred 79-67, and Seattle nipped Gonzaga 86-84 despite a 37-point scoring performance by Frank Burgess, the major college scoring leader.

At Lawrence, Kan., Bill Bridges, Kansas' rebounding ace, turned scorer and dropped in 24 points as the slow-starting Jayhawks (10-5) methodically cut down an early eight-point lead built by Kansas State (11-3) and took over first place in the Big Eight with a 4-1 record. The Wildcats are 2-1.

BYU, trailing 67-54 with 15 minutes left, rolled back on the accurate firing of Dave Eastis and Gary Earnest to overtake Utah (10-5) with Eastis getting the go-ahead basket when McGill was charged with goaltending.

Quarterback Sandy Stephens of Minnesota intercepted four passes during the Big Ten season. He returned them 114 yards.

Northwestern end El Kimbrough led the Big Ten gridmen in pass receiving with 321 receptions for 321 yards and two touchdowns.

Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers repeated as National League strikeout king in 1960 with 246.

Iowa, Purdue Stated To Vie For Loop Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The list of undefeated contenders in the Big Ten basketball race will be reduced by at least one today when Iowa and Purdue clash at Lafayette, Ind.

The Hawkeyes, currently leading the Big Ten with a 4-0 mark, must overcome Purdue's home-floor advantage and the brilliant scoring ability of Olympian Terry Dischinger. Purdue takes a 2-0 record into the game.

Dischinger, currently leading the conference with an average of 35 points a game, cut the middle finger of his right hand during the week but will play against Iowa.

Ohio State (2-0), the nation's No. 1 basketball team, also will be in action with a home contest against Minnesota (1-2). The other game finds Northwestern (0-3) at Michigan State (1-3) in a regionally televised matinee.

Mid-semester examinations shortened the schedule this week and will again next week, when only four conference games are to be played. Michigan State will be at Minnesota and Purdue at Northwestern Monday night. Minnesota goes to Northwestern and Purdue to Ohio State next Saturday.

In non-conference activity next Saturday, Illinois meets Notre Dame and Wisconsin tangles with Loyola in a Chicago Stadium doubleheader while Indiana takes on DePaul.

The Pistons, suddenly in second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association, faced their cousins from Cincinnati today.

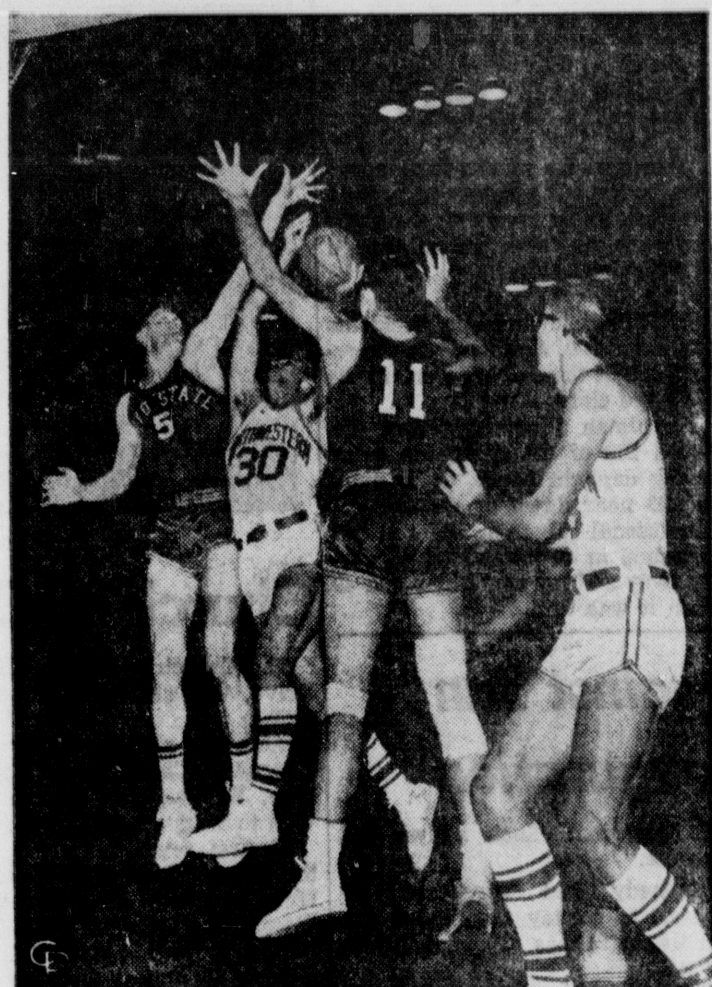

The Pistons squeaked past the New York Knicks, 132-128, here Friday night. It was the only NBA game played, since the foul weather in the East forced postponement of Syracuse at Boston.

Los Angeles plays at Philadelphia today in the afternoon television headliner and New York plays the Hawks at St. Louis in the other half of a doubleheader. Boston tries to play at Syracuse tonight.

The Pistons, who already have whipped Cincinnati eight times this season, are 9-4 games behind the division-leading Hawks.

The Detroit Tigers will have three first basemen in spring training at Lakeland, Fla. They are Norm Cash, Larry Osborne and Dick Gernert.

BUCKS KEEP RECORD CLEAN—Two Ohio State players, John Havlicek (No. 5) and Jerry Lucas (No. 11), gang up on Northwestern's Brad Snyder here to halt the Wildcat scoring try as the Buckeyes turned in their 12th straight cage victory of the year. Scene is Evanston, Ill.

Circleville Police Investigate 323 Accidents during 1960

The Circleville Police Department's yearly report on traffic disclosed that local officers investigated 323 accidents during 1960.

Only one of the accidents was fatal. On April 13 a man and woman were killed when the car in which they were riding collided with a diesel pulled coal train at the Norfolk & Western Railroad's Washington St. crossing.

The yearly report, compiled by Patrolman Richard Blaney, showed that a total of 85 persons were injured in the 323 accidents. Of this number 18 were pedestrians and 13 were bicycle riders. The remainder were in vehicles.

A breakdown of the total accidents showed 253 being with other vehicles, three involving trains, 17 bicycles, two with animals and 33 with fixed objects.

DRIVERS involved in accidents numbered 520. According to the report, 180 of the drivers were in the 23-34 age class.

Patrolman Blaney's report disclosed 233 of the accidents came during daylight hours, 63 at night and 23 near dawn or dusk.

Additional figures showed 197 happened in dry weather, 45 during snow and icy conditions and 49 when it was wet.

Poet's Struggle against Sun Adds Color to Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the colorful inaugural of President Kennedy begins today to fade into memory, one of the incidents that retains its poignancy is the struggle between a glaring sun and poet Robert Frost's 86-year-old eyes.

Frost's part in the inaugural program was part of the new President's tribute to the country's intellectuals. He has invited to his inauguration 155 leading figures in the arts and sciences "in recognition of their importance."

Frost's role was to be the largest. Like Kennedy a New Englander and a Pulitzer Prize winner, Frost was to recite "The Gift Outright," written more than 20 years ago. He also had written especially for the occasion a longer poem expressing gratification that the arts had been recognized in the ceremony.

Bundled up in a heavy overcoat and scarf, Frost, hatless, his white hair swept by the cold wind took his place at the podium and announced, "first a dedication."

Strong sunlight beat down on the lectern. Frost managed a few words, squinted at the paper in front of him and read a few words more. He fumbled through six of the 42 typewritten lines, his words interspersed with long pauses, before muttering "I can't see in this light."

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, seated nearby, jumped to his feet and extended his silk top hat to try to shield the sun. Another bystander placed his hat to Frost's right, between the lectern and the sun.

Some of the platform shifted and a nervous laugh came from the crowd.

Frost still could not make his way. He gave up on the dedication and turned to the poem.

"I can say it to you without reading the poem," Frost declared. Aware that the audience might be confused, he explained "What I was leading up to was to dedicate the poem to the President-elect."

Frost's voice grew stronger and all faltering was gone as he recited from memory "The Gift Outright," a 16-line poem expressing hope about this country's destiny. The closing three lines were:

"To the land vaguely realizing westward,
"But still unstoried, artless, unenhanced,
"Such as she was, such as she would become."

And then he added:
"Or as we have changed it for"

On this occasion: "Such as we will become."

Kennedy had suggested the change to convey the feeling the country still has a great future ahead.

As Frost turned to his seat, Kennedy and President Eisenhower clasped his hand.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official weather bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

A light and powdery snow was general over Ohio this morning but little accumulation occurred. Temperatures were lowest in the northwest counties but skies cleared long enough for Findlay to drop to zero and Toledo 3 above. Columbus had a low of 5 while Chesapeake reported 15.

A weak low pressure area was over Lake Erie moving eastward at sunrise. High pressure dominates most of the midwest. There will be some sunshine over Ohio today especially in the western counties.

Considerable clearing will take place tonight and Sunday will be cold with a mixture of sunshine, cloudiness and snow flurries.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Church of Christ Started Here in 1952

The Church of Christ, 225 Moats Drive, was started in September, 1952.

Charles Cochran, from the Church of Christ in New Martinsville, W. Va., was sent to Circleville to start a new church.

At first seven members met in the Farm Bureau building, E. Main St., with Mr. Cochran for Worship Services each Sunday.

In 1954 two corner lots were purchased and a meeting house was built with four rooms and bath attached for ministers' living quarters. This building was built by the men of the congregation. It was completed in the fall of 1955.

Mr. Cochran remained here until June 1958. He then went to Nashville, Tenn.

Delbert McKenzie was the next minister. He remained here until 1959 when he left to work with the congregation in Kentucky.

The next minister was Jack Rankin. Mr. Rankin left in September, 1960, when he was called to Hartsville, Tenn. due to illness in the family.

Mr. McKenzie returned. He is the present minister.

A third lot adjoining the present two was purchased in the spring of 1960.

Bible Study classes are each Sunday at 9:45 a. m. with Worship Services at 10:30 a. m. Evening Worship services are at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Members now total 37 with an average attendance of 65-70 each week with a record attendance of 97.

They have vocal music only. The church is supported by offerings collected during Worship Service. Bible Study classes are taught by Mr. and Mrs. Milford Kaehle, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nicols, Judy Willison, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Watson, Bea Dillon and Julian Forthe.
